Client Victory Spotlight: $700,000 Verdict Secured!

After more than a decade of delays, our team at Bowen Painter Trial Lawyers fought hard—and won. We recently secured a $700,000 verdict for a Savannah woman who suffered a permanent injury after tripping on a dangerously uneven city curb.

Despite the City of Savannah denying responsibility, we uncovered years of neglect and proved the hazard had been known but ignored. Our trial team presented clear evidence, including expert medical testimony and witness statements, to show how the injury affected our client's life.

Justice delayed is not always justice denied—and this win proves it.

Legal Tip: 3 Ways to Stay Safe on the Road

- Put your phone away or use hands-free mode
- Set your GPS before starting the engine
- Know Georgia's distracted driving laws — and follow them

$700K Verdict: How a Broken Curb Became a Landmark Case

In this episode of Justice for Y'all, the Bowen Painter team shares how they secured a $700,000 verdict in a trip-and-fall case against the City of Savannah. They break down how they proved liability for a broken curb, tackled complex medical evidence, and exposed the city's unequal treatment of tourist vs. residential areas.
